

Privacy policy - 2024

---

- All business information that Trukks AB handles for your company is confidential information and must be handled accordingly
- Confidentiality applies to the confidential information that will be exchanged between Trukks AB and your company before and during ongoing cooperation
- Confidential information refers to any information – technical, commercial or otherwise – regardless of whether the information has been documented or not, which one party transmits to the other party directly or indirectly, in writing or orally. Confidential information does not refer to publicly known information or information that becomes publicly known during the course of the cooperation
- Trukks AB undertakes not to disclose confidential information to an outside party, be it a natural or legal person, authority or organization, with the exception of some cases where the confidential information must be handed over to the authority due to mandatory legislation
- Trukks AB may only use the information for the purpose for which the information was received
- If and when the cooperation ends, all confidential information belonging to your company must be returned to your company and the designated Trukks-super-user. After that, Trukks AB must destroy any backups that belonged to your company Trukks-instance